Darktan

‘A rat called Darktan stepped into the candlelight, hitched up one of his belts of tools....He was big, lean, tough, and spent most of his time taking traps apart to see how they worked.

DW145

Dangerous Beans

...wasn't big or fast and he was almost blind and quite weak and sometimes forgot to eat because he came up with thoughts that nobody – at least, nobody who was a rat – had thought before.

DW146

Hamnpork

Hamnpork was big and fierce and scabby, and he didn't like having a new-fangled brain and he certainly didn't like talking to a cat
