

DW(E)20 (On general sale after the Event.)

Tortoise and the arrow

“Teppic was aware of a faint scuffling by his chin. There was a small tortoise scurrying past him. It had several ricochet marks on its shell....The little reptile gave Teppic a look of mingled pleading and hope. He stared at it, and then lifted it up carefully and ticked it behind a rock.”

Pyramids

SCULPTOR: Joe Pattison

INTRODUCED: AUGUST 2003

NUMBER SOLD: 111 without date

PRICE: £20

My picture is not quite accurate because this is a paint sample. This tortoise is rather too green! I could not find a genuine sale tortoise in my museum.